

TEXAS OKLAHOMA DISTRICT
KEY CLUB INTERNATIONAL

District Editor, Joshua Babb

Greetings T-O!

If you're a writer, journalist or photographer and hope to study one of these professions in college, then you have a great opportunity to serve, improve the Texas-Oklahoma District of Key Club and bolster your résumé for college applications.

Ordinarily, submitting articles to the Tex-O-Key is already a great way to contribute to your local Key Club and the T-O district as a whole. It builds up the entire district when stories of your service reach other clubs and they're encouraged to try new avenues of service, too. In addition, it increases publicity for your club and adds points when calculating positions for the top 25 clubs. This year, though, there's going to be one more incentive to submit articles to the Tex-O-Key.

Key Club has always looked good on résumés, but now not just for its service aspect. This year there's an entirely new way to do service and it's all about the Tex-O-Key. As District Editor I'm heading an informal team of Key Clubbers that will work on producing the Tex-O-Key and making this year's volume be the best yet in T-O history. If you can commit to regularly contributing to the Tex-O-Key as a volunteer member of this team then not only will you be able to use your contributions to the Tex-O-Key and the publication as a whole on your résumé and college applications but you will also be part of a great team and will learn a lot about your desired profession, as well. I personally have industry experience in marketing and publicity, especially graphic design, proof writing, copy editing, and photography - all of which are essential skills in overseeing the creation of a magazine and all of which you, too, will learn as a part of this team. You'll learn a lot and, in turn, will have a lot of experience to show that interviewer, college dean or future employer, if you're willing to be challenged to improve yourself. Take a look at this year's first issue of the Tex-O-Key for a taste of what I've already produced and what I am looking to improve upon for a glimpse of what you'll be able to learn to produce and for a preview of what you'll help to work on.

So here it is once more time: I'm looking for writers, photographers, and journalists that are motivated, talented and want to not only learn a lot, get real experience and improve their résumé, but also do so with a great team of people that is serving the entire Texas-Oklahoma district.

Email me at joshua.daniel.b@gmail.com if you're interested. I look forward to hearing from you!

Yours in Service,
Joshua Babb
